About Tzuki's Plan B

Cookoon Game Lab's new project is a simple platformer game about a promising young scientist that struggles to solve an environmental problem.

The idea started with a tiny yarn doll that was given life for this project. The story's plotline revolves around the importance of scientific progress regarding environmental care, and on this basis, the title of the game arised: Tzuki's Plan B.

- ◆ A planet at risk.
- ◆ A failed experiment.
- ◆ And a promising scientist's plan B.

THERE IS NO
PLANET B

Tzuki's Plan B will arrive to smartphone screens on April 22nd, 2021
In the meantime, you can preorder on App Store, from January 18th, 2021

Objectives

The creation of Tzuki's Plan B encompasses objectives beyond the scope of game development and storyline.

Raise awareness about environmental care

We want to play our part to remark the importance of the care of our plant and the living beings in it through raising awareness about sustainability.

Make known the different branches of science

We want to create content to bring the public towards the different fields of science and to make known the numerous expert women on each branch in order to make them an example and also inspiration.

Inspiration for future Women in Science

We are aware that there is still a gender gap in terms of science professionalism and for that, we want this game to serve as an inspiration for girls to consider a career in science and/or engineering.

TZUKI'S

PLAN B

The main title "TZUKI'S" is rendered in a large, green, bubbly font with a white dashed outline, giving it a sticker-like appearance. Below it, "PLAN B" is written in a smaller, red, bold, sans-serif font, also with a white dashed outline. A small red gem icon is positioned to the right of the text.
